

Family Story Station Workshop

Connecting generations through family stories!

What to expect

- An interactive workshop for family members of different generations.
- Brainstorming sessions where kids come up with questions they've always wanted to ask their older relatives. They also learn important conversational skills.
- Interviews where the family members learn more about each other
- A chance to share what they learned!

Details

- All ages welcome!
- This works especially well with grandparents and their grandchildren.
- No prior writing experience needed.
- Can be a one-time workshop or a series, in-person or virtual
- Contact jenerationstories@gmail.com for schedule and pricing information

About Me

This workshop will be led by Jennifer Shulman. She has worked in research and writing for over 30 years and is the founder of Jeneration Stories, a company that helps people turn their personal stories into self-published books.
